Found in a Cave.

A party of prospectors who have just retarned from Fort Yama, Cal., from a long Board of Directors, trip over the northern part of the valley report the finding of a mummified man. The men who were on the trip had been traveling over a rough part of the country, which had the appearance of having at one time been the bed of an old stream which had been filled by a flow of lava from some volcano in the mountains. On one of the high bluffs near this old river i ed an opening was discovered, and as the camp was made near by, the place was explored, as it was thought this might possibly be an ancient mine of which many stories are told in that part of the country.

The opening was high in the cliff and difficult of access, but was reached af er a hard day's work. It was discovered that the place was the work of man, for there were many evidences of the rock and dirt baying been dug away. This made the men sure they had struck an old mine, and they worked with a will clearing out the debris which had secumulated at the mouth of the opening. When this was all cleared away it was found that the place was a small chamber out into the solid rock, and at the end of the chamber was found a mummy in a fitting posture. The dead man had evidently been a person of some importance in the section at one time, for everything about the service of the chamber was for the mouth of the mouth of the workmanhip of other gentlemen who have treated me, I must say that I have not before been so well satisfied. Very respectfully.

Call and get an estimate if you need ANY. THING in the line of Modern Dentstry, I will cost nothing and may save you much. You will find us AHEAD of the times always.

Extracting. were many evidences of the rock and dirt baying been dug away. This made the men the section at one time, for everything about the cave showed that it had been built for the sole cocupancy of the mummy. It was seated on a stone facing the east, and from its seat there was a clear view out of the mouth of the cave to the print where the sun made its first appearance over the monetain top. The men left the body as they found it.

Heroic in Death.

An English civil engineer, Mr. Francis H. Grundy, relates what he calle "The short story of an unknown hero." "Bil, the Banker," he was called, and even at the inquest over his body no other name was firth coming.

He was only a poor navv; his usual pla e wes at the top of a forming embankment, among the "tip wagons" During the building of the Manchester and Leeds railway be was top man over a shall of one of the ou-marous tunnels which were being constitueted in the line.

Here he met with a gloriously disastrous scoldent, and his conduct should be emblazoned in letters of gold upon the history of his country. He was only a navvy, I say, and probably could neither read nor write.

The sheft was, perhaps, 200 feet deep, aclid rock sides and bottom. His duty was to raise the trucks which had been fi led below. and run them to the top, retuining them empty to his mates at the bottom. If a chain broke, or a big boulder fell off a truck, he had to show, "Waur out!" and the miners below crept farther into their drives" and allowed the death-dealing article to come down harmlesely.

One unhappy day Bili'e foot slipped hop-lessly, and he knew that he must be smashed from side to side of the narrow shaft, and landed, a crushed mass, at the bottom. But his mates? If he screamed, the unusual noise would bring them out at once to inquire the cause. He never lost his presence of mind. Clearly went down the signal, "Waur out below!" and his mates heard in eafety the thud, emash of his mangled remains.— Youth's Companion.

Seven Years Without a Birthday.

A Scotch clergyman who died nearly thirty years ago, Mr. L:ishman, of Kinross, used to tell that he once been seven years without a tithday. The statement puzzled most who heard it. They could see that, if he had been born on the 29th of February. he would have no birthday except in leapyear. But lear-year comes once in four years, and this accounts for a gap of three years only; their first thought would there-fore naturally be that the old man, who was fond of harmless jest, was somehow jesting about the seven. There was, however, no joke or trick in his assertion. At the present time there can be very few if there are any, who have this tale to tell themselves, for one who can tell of it must have been born on the 29th of February at least nine-ty-six years ago. But a similar line of missing dates is now soon to return; and indeed there are any total the sound readers of this there are, no doubt, some readers of this who will have only one birthday to celebrate for nearly twelve years to come.

The solution of the puzzle is to be found in the fact, which does not appear to be very widely known, that the year 1800 was not a leap-year and 1900 will not be. The February of the present year had twenty-nine days; but in all the seven years internine days; but in all the seven years inter-vening between 1896 and 1804, as well as in the three between 1892 and 1896, that month will have only twenty-eight .- St.
